profile

I am a third year architecture student, designer and creative seeker studying at the University of Portsmouth with an interest in designing for health and wellbeing. My experience and interests mean that I can problem solve for functionality whilst engaging an emotional response. Alongside being lucky enough to experience different corners of the globe, I have witnessed great levels of disparity in the increasingly densifying built world. I wish to use emerging technologies and progressive materiality to contribute to a healthy and harmonious environment.
